Sirs, it is necessary
1st to appoint a Registrar under the Regulation, or at least to direct that some person shall in virtue of his office perform the duties of the Registrar. Perhaps, the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies in the case of societies in the Bangalore District, and the District Registrars in the case of societies in their districts may provisionally perform the functions of Registrar under the Regn, till such time as a full-time Registrar is appointed.
2dly to frame rules on the most essential matters, leaving others to be dealt with as the necessity arises.

4. As regards the second, I have prepared a set of rules on the lines of those recently passed for the Bombay Presidency* and for Coorg*. I believe these embody as many much as is immediately required.

Rules under the Mysore Co-operative Societies Regulation III of 1905:

2 From the Hon'ble Assistant Secretary of the Bangalore City Co-operative Society Ltd 3/14/8/05:

Forwards for consideration an extract from the proc. of the Committee of Management requesting that the quorum fixed in the proviso to Rule 7 of the draft rules may be reduced from 1/2 to 1/3.

Sent for criticisms

Ord 2nd 12/1905 16 The object of previous publication of rules being to elicit suggestions or criticisms from persons interested the Bangalore City Co-operative Society have taken the opportunity to suggest a modification in Rule 7, proviso (b).

17 The suggestion is based on practical experience, & deserves favourable consideration.

18 The proviso as at present drafted requires that a resolution to modify or alter a bye-law must be passed by at least 2/3 of the members present at a meeting and one half of the total number of members on the rolls. Accordingly, taking an extreme case of difference of opinion, the quorum that would be present at such a meeting is (1/2 × 3/2) or 3/4 ths of the entire number on the rolls, in order that 2/3 rds of the majority of the number present may be equal to at least 1/2 of the total number. Such a requisi-

ment is evidently too high, & where the ~~members are large~~ members are numerous, incapable of attainment. To insist on it ~~will~~ simply lead to dislocation of business. The proportion in question may therefore well be fixed at one-third of the total number, in which case the quorum ~~shall always be~~ need not in any case be more than ($\frac{1}{3} \times \frac{3}{2}$ or) half of the entire number.

Submitted to His Highness.

24 The Rules framed under the Mysore Co-operative Societies Regulation were approved by His Highness on the 8th instant. The rules may now be finally passed with a single alteration. Proviso (b) to Rule 7 requires that a resolution making, altering or abrogating bye-laws shall be passed "by not less than two-thirds of the members present at the general meeting and by not less than half of the total number of the members". In practice it is found inconvenient to get a quorum of half of the total strength of the Society and it is, therefore, proposed to reduce it to one-third. The Council is in favor of this amendment which may be sanctioned by His Highness.

25 Simultaneously with the final promulgation of these rules, a Registrar has to be called into existence. The accompanying papers also contain the discussion of the case by the

26 The two points for determination are (1) whether a wholetime officer is needed; (2) if so, whether the appointment should be permanent and what pay should be attached to it.

27 On the first point the Council is unanimous in thinking that a wholetime officer is indispensable. The First Councillor has been of that opinion from the commencement. Though wholetime officers have been appointed in British India, still the Second Councillor and I entertained doubts as regards the necessity for a wholetime officer in Mysore. The Second Councillor has after some consideration come to the conclusion that the undivided attention of an officer is necessary to secure successful results. To create a spirit of co-operation among the people and then to organize it are by no means easy. That work is specially difficult when the people's faith in co-operation has been somewhat rudely shaken by the failure of most of the Agricultural Banks. Still I should have hesitated to positively assert that a wholetime officer would have sufficient work in administering the Regulation and the rules framed under it. But I find that certain suitable spheres of work for which there is no provision now can be advantageously tacked on to him. The possibility of combining the functions of any one or more of the existing officers was considered by the Council; but no one combination has met with its approval. But I think that the Registrar may also be charged with the duty of acquainting himself with the condition of the various industries in the State, of studying the causes of their decline and of suggesting suitable measures to arrest it. This itself would open a wide field for work; but to it may be added the function of collecting and systematising commercial statistics about which the Government have now little or no information. This officer may work under the Revenue Commissioner, who is also Director of Statistics.

14 Turning to the second point, it should be observed that the Council first came to the unanimous conclusion that the appointment should be a permanent one and that the grade should be one starting with Rs500 and rising to Rs700 by annual increments of Rs50. (Please see my note on the Agenda papers). At first there was divided opinion in the Council, which was recorded by me. But before the meeting was over, the Council reverted to the subject and concluded that Mr. Shama Rav M.A., might be appointed Registrar on Rs600 rising to Rs700 by yearly increments of Rs50. Subsequently an idea to combine the duties of the Circle Inspector with those of Registrar occurred to my mind, and I accordingly circulated the proposal to the Councillors on the 5th instant. The First Councillor in his reply, dated the 5th August, did not question the propriety of having a permanent Registrar; but for the first time and in opposition to his original views, he doubted it and suggested that an Assistant Commissioner appointed as Registrar might be given an allowance of Rs150. Mr. Madiah's opinion too underwent a slight change since he wrote on the 5th August that the appointment might be limited to two years as his work would be finished within that period. I regret I cannot agree with either of them. An allowance, however liberal, will not in my opinion be a sufficient incentive for good work. It should be noted that the work is altogether new and that the success of the scheme which promises to be so very conducive to the well-being of the people mainly hinges upon the enthusiasm of the officer first appointed. The conditions of his appointment should be such as not only to rouse but sustain it. In short, the experiment should be introduced under the most favorable circumstances. A departure from this wise policy of the British Indian Government might lead to disastrous results. As regards the Second Councillor's opinion, I am afraid that it is too optimistic to think that the Registrar will get to the end of his work in two years. This is certainly not the experience in the British Indian Provinces. The apprehension that the scheme would fail has not precluded the British Indian Government from creating a wholetime permanent appointment. Should, however, the scheme fail and the necessity for the appointment cease, it might be absorbed as was done in the case of the office of Inspector of Agricultural Banks. This contingency will, in my opinion, act as a far better incentive than mere allowance.

29 As regards the grade, the Second Councillor and I (and the first Councillor shared this opinion at the Council Meeting held on the 26th July last), are of the opinion that it should start with ₹s500 and rise to ₹s700 by annual increments of ₹s50. It would be just better than that of a Senior Assistant Commissioner and inferior to that of a Deputy Commissioner. In British Indian Provinces the status of a Registrar corresponds with that of a junior Collector.

30 As regards the candidate, the Second Councillor and I are of the opinion that Mr. Shama Rav M.A., Assistant Secretary under me, would be the most competent person. The First Councillor also thought so at the meeting and mentions Mr. Shama Rav's name in his Note. He has a thorough grasp of the principles underlying co-operative Societies and has been mainly instrumental in starting one such society in Bangalore. He likes the subject and is likely to work enthusiastically. He has been drawing ₹s500 for nearly four years, besides having the concession of a free carriage. Mr. Madiah and I think that the grade of ₹s500-50-700 with a starting pay of ₹s600 is not too much for Mr. Shama Rav. On this point there is practically unanimous opinion, as the First Councillor thinks that Mr. Shama Rav deserves both the grade and the starting pay though as Circle Inspector.

31 In these circumstances, Mr. Shama Rav's appointment as Registrar of Co-operative Credit Societies on ₹s600 rising to ₹s700 by yearly increments of ₹s50, may be graciously sanctioned by His Highness.

Alteration in the Rules under the Mysore Co-operative Societies' Regulation, and the proposed appointment of a Registrar.

Order.

32 I consider that the proposed appointment is absolutely necessary if the advantages of co-operation & the facilities afforded by the recently passed regulation are to be brought home to all classes in the State. I understand that Mr. Shama Rao has devoted much attention to the subject, & I have every hope therefore that his appointment will be productive of much benefit,

33 The continuance of the appointment may, I think, be reconsidered at the end of two years.

II. That the Government be approached with a request that the quorum fixed in the proviso to Rule 7 of their Draft Rules be reduced from half to one third, as it is difficult to secure the attendance of such a large number as half, especially, where the total number of members is a large one. In the case of this Co-operative Society for instance the number is as high as 170 and it is found very difficult in practice to secure the attendance of as many as 30 or 40 members even for the most important meetings.
